All Ministers By Acclamation

Eleven of Mr. Borden's Cabinet Elected

Toronto, Ont., Oct. 27.—Eleven of the new ministers were re-elected today by acclamation after having accepted office. They are: Hon. R. L. Borden, in Halifax; Hon. J. D. Hazen, in St. John county; Hon. L. P. Pelletier, in Quebec county; Hon. F. D. Monk, in Jacques Cartier; Hon. W. R. Nantel, in Terrebonne; Hon. G. E. Foster, in North Toronto; Hon. J. D. Reid, in Grenville; Hon. Sam Hughes, in Victoria and Haliburton; Hon. T. W. Crothers, in West Elgin; Hon. J. Roche, in Marquette, and Hon. Robert Rogers in Winnipeg.

The other ministers whose elections come later, namely Messrs. Burrell, Cochrane and White are also to be unopposed. Ottawa, Oct. 27.—On instructions from Hon. S. Hughes, minister of militia, Col. Fiset, deputy minister of the department, and Lieut. Col. Maunelle, director of engineer services, left yesterday for Atlantic City to witness the aviation flights there during the next few days under the auspices of the United States war department. The Canadian militia department has as yet taken no definite steps to keep pace with the flights in preparing to utilize aerial craft for defence purposes, but the question has been under consideration by the militia council for some time. It is possible that a beginning may be made shortly by the purchase of an airship by the militia department. The report of Col. Fiset and Col. Maunelle on their return will be considered by the militia council with this in view.

Col. Hughes will leave on Sunday night for the Pacific coast in company with General McKenzie, chief of the general staff, for an inspection trip covering militia properties and forces between Winnipeg and Victoria. Col. Hughes expects to be back in Ottawa in time for the opening of parliament on November 15.

New School for North Red Deer

A special meeting of the School Board was held on Friday afternoon last to open tenders for a new school in North Red Deer. The following tenders were received: T. S. Miller, $29,990; Chas. Elie, $14,148; Baird & McKenzie, $33,925. The tender of Baird & McKenzie was accepted.

The school will be built after the plan of the cottage schools so popular in Calgary, and will be modern in every respect so far as possible. The idea of building a cottage school at the present time is a new one. An up-to-date school that would be required in North Red Deer in a short time would cost in the neighborhood of ten thousand dollars. The cottage school will fill every requirement at the present time, and as soon as the population requires it a larger school may be built and the present building be sold for a dwelling house. We understand Baird & McKenzie will start work on the school at once and rush it to completion.

Springvale Supper a Success

The annual supper and concert at the Springvale Methodist church was a great success, and the committee wish to thank the quartette from town and other outside friends for their contributions to the programme and assistance at the supper. Nicholas Pierson, recently from England, scored a great success by his singing. The sum of $67 was realized from the supper and the sum of $170 by subscription. This places the church and parsonage of Springvale practically out of debt. These chicken suppers have become exceedingly popular, and our Springvale friends will continue to hold them, but in the future there will be no further appeals for subscriptions.

Poplar Ridge

A. F. Pollard has sold his farm to A. Everall, and is going west on his homestead soon.

W. Withel, of Calgary, formerly of Poplar Ridge, was looking up old neighbors for a few days. Mr. Withel will open a wood and coal yard in Calgary.

A large congregation availed themselves of the opportunity to hear Revs. Barner and Bennett in the school house on Sunday afternoon. Mr. Bennett will take the service every other Sunday. Mr. Barner and Mr. Mott once a month. The neighborhood are certainly very fortunate in securing such men as Messrs. Barner and Bennett, and should make a great effort to make the meetings a great success by at least attending the services regularly. The hour has been changed from 2:30 to 3 p.m. Sunday School at 2 o'clock.

Miss Wilson attended the teachers' convention held at Innisfail last week.

The Bye-Elections

Conservatives Carry All Four Seats

Tweedie is elected by 1100, in Calgary; Riley, in Gleichen, by 400 majority, and the other two seats are safe with big majorities.

This practically puts the Sifton government out of business.

High School Defeat Normalites

The Calgary Normal School football team came up and played the local High School team on Thanksgiving day. The game was rather one-sided, the local team having to exert themselves. The Normal team were shy one or two of their best men, but they did their best despite this fact. The ground was not in very good condition, being frozen and slippery in places, but the day was ideal for football. Red Deer kicked off at once by passing the ball to their opponent's goal, but it was not until some time had passed that Krause put in a good shot that went through. Then the Normal team kept the ball pretty well up for a time. Walker at back for them being particularly strong. Then after some combination work which was generally lacking in the game, Geissinger scored for the locals, making the score at half 2-0.

The last part of the game was rather uninteresting, as there was no doubt as to its final outcome. Carswell got the third one for the locals on a pretty corner kick by Geissinger, and Krause got two more shortly afterwards. Though the Normalites bucked up somewhat and secured their own goal in the second half, Hill putting in a good shot, the locals won the game 5-1. The teams were:

Calgary	goal	Red Deer
Shaw	backs	Hewson
Walker	half	Gibson
Hanson	half	C. Smith
Day	half	Brown
Roberts	half	Evans
Hill	forwards	R. Smith
Miller		White
Good		Carswell
Alvin		Krause
Lane		Markle
Hall		Geissinger
W. Hadley referred. The locals may go down and play a return game on Saturday next.

Pretty Receptions and Teas

Mrs. W. L. Gibson was the hostess at a very pretty tea on Wednesday afternoon. She was assisted in the drawing room by Mrs. Parsons, Mrs. MacGregor and Mrs. Hacking, while Miss Olive Smith presided at the piano in a delightful manner. Mrs. Greene and Mrs. Manning, assisted by Miss Peterson and Miss E. A. Millar, served tea in the dining room, where red and white were the prevailing colors, this scheme being carried out by the aid of carnations. In the drawing room the flowers were yellow chrysanthemums, which harmonized with the hostess' gown of chiffon over pale yellow silk.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Payne entertained at tea for her guest Miss Schultz. Mrs. Payne was gowned in white, and Miss Schultz wore white with touches of blue. Mrs. Parsons showed the guests into the dining room, where the table was beautifully decorated with white chrysanthemums and gartlands of smilax. Mrs. Greene poured tea, while Mrs. Manning and Mrs. Carscallen served the dainty refreshments to the guests. Miss Schultz, who was Mrs. Payne's bridesmaid, will probably remain with her until Christmas.

Mrs. W. Breden Galbraith received for the first time since her coming to Red Deer in her beautiful new residence, "Gleason Bungalow," on Fifth Street North, on Friday afternoon and evening, Oct. 20th, Mrs. J. E. Cunningham received with her. The flower decorations were in the yellow, the tea table being centred with handsome Shirley chrysanthemums. It was presided over by Mrs. Carter and Mrs. J. M. Hacking, with Miss Lilly and Miss Smith assisting. There was an exceedingly large turnout, the gentlemen coming out in the evening. The house exterior and interior were very much admired, the mantels, window seats, cosy corners, etc., giving added charm to the hospitality of the hostess and host, and bringing forth many compliments for Mr. Galbraith, who had designed the pretty home himself.

Mr. Michener's Speech

In another column will be found the speech of E. E. Michener, leader of the Conservative party in Alberta, at Calgary, last week. The speech is incomplete in several parts, the Herald finding it necessary to curtail certain portions of the address owing to want of space. The address is well worth reading and shows our member to be able to hold his own with the best in the province.

Manslaughter, Says the Coroner's Jury

This is Verdict at Lacombe in Inquest into Explosion Fatality

Lacombe, Alta., Oct. 27.—That Everett G. McLeod came to his death from injuries received from the explosion of a trunk in the baggage room of the C.P.R. depot at Lacombe on the evening of October 12, 1911, and from evidence produced it is the opinion of the jury that the trunk causing the death of the said Everett G. McLeod was checked over the C.P.R. from Red Deer to Lacombe by Henry Leonard Nein and Harry Leine.

The above is the verdict of the coroner's jury on the death of the C.P.R. baggage man, who was killed in the explosion which wrecked the depot here on the 12th Oct. Bickford, the assistant baggage man who was also severely injured at the time, was able to leave the baggage room and appear before the jury. He is still very weak and suffers from the severe burns received. His evidence was with reference to the trunk which exploded and which was taken off the train by him on the evening of the accident.

Several other witnesses were called with reference to the trunk, the most damaging evidence to the parties under arrest being given by the baggage master at Red Deer, who identified positively Leine and Nein as being the parties who checked the trunk from Red Deer to Lacombe. From evidence brought out, the trunk contained a large amount of potassium chlorate and magnesium metal powder.

Leine and Nein were taken to Fort Saskatchewan tonight by the R.N.W. M.P. to await a preliminary trial on a charge of manslaughter.

Rox Social

A basket (or box) social will be held in Springvale school on Friday evening, Nov. 10th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid of Willowdale Presbyterian Church. Valuable prizes will be given for the three most handsome boxes, which must be paper trimmed. Paper bags (suitably filled) will be supplied for all who do not secure boxes, for 25 cents. A good programme will also be given. Come, boys, and try and get one of the beautiful boxes.

Two of our prominent business men, one a lawyer and the other a banker, bled away out into the wilderness to go to shoot chicken on Thanksgiving Day, and thereon hangs a tale. But we will not dilate thereon or describe their varied peregrinations except to state that before they succeeded in extricating their car from the festive mud hole the sun's declining rays warned them that they would needs hasten if they were to succeed in reaching town before the dusk of even enshrouded them. Lonesome, homesick and weary, they arrived in town wiser, if not loaded down with chicken and partridge.

REWARD OF SUSAN

A Story of Maternal Heroism That Had Unexpected Developments

The baby was dying.

He lay in his cot, with the blue of his eyes showing through the closed, heavy lids, with a waxen pallor on his cheeks, straw-colored hair, and a heart which stabbed the heart of his mother who bent over him.

Sue Giles went to the cottage window in despair. Before her stretched the moor—wild, rugged, almost purple against the flaring western sky. Then she glanced at the clock. It wanted half an hour before the forty stopped at Barleycombe, and it took Ben, her husband, twenty full minutes to trudge the mile to the lone cottage down the line.

There were no neighbors nearer than Barleycombe. Yet the doctor ought to be summoned—must be summoned. And Dr. Kent lived two and a half miles down the line, in the opposite direction to Barleycombe, nearer Lakehampton. The railway ran past his garden, half a mile after Archer's tunnel and the cutting, and it was the nearest route. She had often trudged there and back.

But to go meant to leave the baby alone. To stay meant to be placed at the child once more, shaking her head and weeping a sob.

Ben was Barleycombe's solitary porter, and his lanterns, ready-trimmed for the nine-fifteen, stood in the corner. Sue lit it, scribbling with her finger on the glass, and then to the dresser. "Gone for doctor. Baby's queer. Mind him," were her simple directions.

Then she kissed the baby very lightly, for he seemed asleep, and slipped to the door.

It seemed terrible to leave the child alone. But she comforted herself, as she hurried on, that he was too young to walk, that the fire was safely guarded, and that before long Ben would take her place.

It was weary walking, plodding over the heavy ballast beside the permanent way. She dared not run, for she was not strong; but she pressed on, mutely praying, passed the signal, her face to the glowing, fiery sunset.

She reached the stunted bushes round Wells's Hollow, left them behind, and crossed the trestle bridge over the babbling Ake.

Now she passed Highwayman's Oak—a landmark to stragglers lost on the moor and now the mouth of Archer's tunnel, black and grim, was before her. She had always feared its depths and its darkness, had usually climbed the hill and plunged into Archer's Wood, to descend the steep sides by the jaws of the cutting, a quarter of a mile on. In preference to the more direct route which the tunnel's grimy, slimy, reverberating hollows afforded.

But she could not think of herself now. The tunnel was the quickest, and therefore the only way, and she chose it without pause or hesitation.

It was long, and the lantern's feeble rays seemed swallowed up, mocked at, in the gloom. The light from its mouth faded. Pitch darkness settled down before and behind her. But she had forgotten herself; she was only counting her steps, looking for the doctor's garden, praying to find him in.

A dim light began to pervade the blackness; it grew stronger, and the air sweeter. She trudged on round the curve of the line and presently the arched opening of the tunnel's mouth showed up like a bite taken out of a huge slice of black bread.

Only the cutting now, she rejoiced, quickening her steps; only the cutting—half a mile of level road—and her journey was done. Dr. Kent would get out his trap, the old grey cob would be coasted into his smiling cantier, center, and—

She tripped, stumbled a few paces, regained her balance, the lantern swinging. Without stopping, she looked over her shoulder. Once more her feet found an obstruction; she turned her lantern forward with a scream of horror.

For fifteen yards ahead of her, rails, sleepers, the ballast path she trod, were obliterated in a pile of rock on which the ferns and wildflowers still grew. One glance told her what had happened. She remembered such an occurrence before. The face of the cutting had slipped. Stress of storm, beating rain, and the constant vibration of passing trains had loosened its foundations, letting down tons of red rock, of red earth and mossy stones, in piled confusion on the rails.

But though she had stopped, the delay was but momentary. The subsidence was an obstacle, no more. Nothing short of the wrecking crew should prevent her reaching Dr. Kent. She clambered up the fallen rock, sending a volley of strong curses, turned beneath her feet down the steep sides of the mass, catching at ferns and roots to aid her ascent, crawling almost on her hands and knees over the litter, which stood seven or eight feet high at its summit.

The thought of her baby—only that. Only that the summit was reached, the descent before her, the difficulties surmounted.

And then she thought of the six-forty! It stabbed her to think of it set her trembling, shaking, her lips quivering, her forehead damp—this sudden remembrance.

The six-forty with its five-mile run before it, its clear road, its passengers, its huge speed, its tearing whistle as it slid into the tunnel, the roar of it as it shot into the open of the cutting.

She saw the end—saw the engine rolled over with a shriek of escaping steam; saw the coaches pile one upon another; heard the screams, the groaning and the moaning of the passengers; saw red fire creeping over the ruins; quaked at the thought of imprisoned men, women, children—babies like her own—being roasted as the debris of the wrecked train fed the flames.

And in fifteen minutes—fifteen minutes at the most—it would be due! She could save it—might save it!—if she turned her back on her errand, faced the tunnel once more, changed nothing if there was an accident!

But even if she won through, even if her lantern brought the train to a standstill, a precious half-hour would be lost. It meant death to her baby. She could not doubt that. She had seen Death come to a little brother, to babies of other numbers, and she knew his approach.

Her baby! She began to clamber down the steep sides of the fall. The mother in her kept on. What matter if the whole of the terrible baby lived? She had come so far to save her child—

She paused. Why, she could come back! She would stop the train when her errand was done—

But as she struggled on, the hot argument of her heart died down. She began to feel chill. She knew there would not be time. It was one or the other; she knew that.

But still she kept on her way. Her baby—her baby! Why did Heaven ask this thing of her? And as she reached the level ground on the other side of the fallen mass, she fell on her knees, shaking with sobs, crying out: "Ah, them people! Ah, them people!"

She sank down, throwing out her arms, letting her head fall on them, weeping piteously, moaning.

When she struggled to her feet, she stared dizzily down the cutting, and her lips moved.

"Oh, Heaven, save my baby! I can't!"

She turned her back on her destination, feverishly began to retrace her steps, fought her way over the slippery debris with the energy—the energy of a mind made up.

Down the other side she scrambled with a slithering, patting, and a scuffling along the littered permanent way to the ballast, free from the fall, near her own tunnel.

Then she darted into the darkness, running, panting, her heart burning and her breast torn with each wild breath. She passed the middle of the tunnel, where the walls ran water, and dripping. It was a mad, mad dash—she came from the roof. She was near the end of the tunnel, and when first she began to run, and she knew the six-forty was upon her!

Out of all night came the rumble, the roar, the clatter of the onrushing train. She rounded the curve again, catching sight of the headlights; she saw the steam by the driving-wheels, floating backwards like pennants; the scudding smoke overhead, lined as it passed the cab by the ruby glow of the furnace.

She stood upon a rail, balancing herself, holding the lantern high above her head, waving it madly, screaming, though even then she knew her puny cries were swamped in the roar of the rushing wheels.

Suddenly the pennants died away. With a hideous, grating whirr the brakes were put on. The engine glided on, and she slipped from the rail with it only a dozen feet away from her. Still the lantern waved as a hoarse voice shouted to her and the train went by.

It began to draw up. Heads appeared at every window. The guard leaped down, lantern in hand. The fireman left his engine, groping his way back to the screaming woman at the rail-side.

"A fall—a fall in Archer's cutting!" she yelled, and toppled forward into the fireman's arms.

"'Twas as she said," she heard a voice saying as she came to. "The train must have been wrecked—several hundred tons—rock. She's saved the train and all of us!"

Sue opened her eyes. A man bent over her, and a pair of kindly, stern eyes looked into hers.

"All right—feeling better? I'm a doctor. You saved us all, we here. You're a brave woman."

"A doctor?" she cried shrilly. "Then come—my baby—he's dying—at the cottage—near his back—come. Please come!"

"I'm afraid it's impossible. I've a very important operation—"

"You can't get on to-night, sir—at least, not yet awhile," announced the guard. "We shall have to run back to Barleycombe, and have a gang sent down to clear the line. It'll be several hours afore we're—"

"The train passes my cottage—on the way back. Won't you come, sir?" The doctor nodded.

"If I can't get on I'll come," he said gently. "If it had not been that I could allow no one in the kingdom to delay me, I wouldn't have refused at first. Are you running back now, guard?"

He helped Sue into the first-class compartment he had left, and climbed beside her. A word from him to the guard brought the train to a standstill at the little track-side cottage. Ben met them at the garden-end, his face white.

"He's nearly gone!" he whispered. "Dr. Kent, I—Why, Sue, couldn't you find the doctor?"

A few minutes afterwards Ben found himself driven from the cottage.

"Where's your nerve, man?" growled the doctor. "Oh, give me a woman when there's illness and something to be done!"

Later on Ben brought Dr. Kent. The two medical men talked together in the garden till the train passed the cottage once more, picked up the stranger, and went on its journey through the cleared cutting.

Kent went into the cottage, where Ben and Sue stood hand-in-hand, the woman gray, with tears of thanksgiving in her eyes, the man white and shaking.

"You were lucky, Mrs. Giles," he said. "The boy will recover. Never have I seen a more delicate or more skilful operation. Had it been delayed an hour, death must have ensued. Had the fall not taken place, had come straight on to me, I should not have been prepared for an operation, and the child would have been certainly perished."

"You don't know, I suppose, who attended you? You don't know the name of the man, so providentially equipped for the emergency you summoned him on?"

She shook her head. How near she had been to going straight out! How swift her punishment would have been!

A royal personage lies ill at Davenport; an operation was decided on yesterday. When you saved the train, Mrs. Giles, by your bravery, you also saved Sir Alexander Heaton-Drum, C.B., Surgeon to His Majesty the King—and incidentally—your baby's life!"

The Ladies of Red Deer May Now Have Beautiful Hair

GAETZ-CORNETT DRUG & BOOK CO. HAVE THE ARTICLES AND GUARANTEE IT TO GROW HAIR, OR REFUND YOUR MONEY.

Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., backed up by the manufacturers of SALVIA, the Great Hair Grower, guarantees it to grow hair.

SALVIA destroys dandruff in ten days. The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Ladies of society and influence use no other. SALVIA is a non-sticky preparation, and is the ladies' favorite. A large, generous bottle, 50c. The Seabell Drug Co., St. Catharines, Canadian distributors.

The Youths' Companion

No other paper is quite like the Youths' Companion. It has taken in half a million homes, where the choice of reading is made with as much care as the choice of friends.

For years The Companion has enjoyed a reputation by distinguished men and women of Great Britain and Canada. Among those already engaged to write for the 1912 volume are General Baden-Powell, who has something of interest to say about the Boy Scout movement, Sir Harry Johnston, who recalls the last of the Great South African hunters, William T. Stead, Jerome K. Jerome, Jane Barlow, Frank T. Bullen, Rev. W. J. Dawson, Richard Whiting, Sir James Graham Brown, and the Duke of Argyll, former Governor-General of Canada.

The serial stories alone, which will follow one another the year through, will be worth $1.50 each when published in book form. By taking The Companion the Canadian subscriber gets them all and 250 other complete stories for $2.00, and the Articles, Miscellaneous, Boys' Page, Girls' Page, Household Page, etc., put in for good measure. Now is the time to subscribe, for on January 1, 1912, the subscription price will be advanced to $2.25.

Do not forget that the new subscriber for 1912 receives free The Companion's Calendar for 1913, lithographed in twelve colors and gold, and all the issues for the remaining weeks of 1911 from the time the subscription is received.

Zam-Buk is so Very Useful. Read How Beneficial it Proved in this case.

Mrs. H. Sawyer, of Keene, Ont., writes: "My husband is engaged on a farm, and one day, while chopping wood, the top of the axe broke and fell upon his foot, cutting a nasty gash. The wound was so bad that we first thought we would have to get a doctor, but we finally decided to dress the cut with Zam-Buk."

"Well, the Zam-Buk treatment proved a great success. It not only eased the pain, but it prevented any inflammation, and right from first applying Zam-Buk, the cut began to heal. It is now completely healed, and my husband says he will never be without a box of Zam-Buk, for the reason, for we are sure it saved us a great deal of expense."

Over and over again Zam-Buk has been proven to be the work's best remedy. As soon as applied to a cut, a burn, a scald, or any skin injury, it relieves the pain and it sets up healing. It also prevents blood poisoning or inflammation. It is a sure cure, too, for eczema, piles, ulcers, old wounds, bad leg, ringworm, scalp sores, festering, running sores, eruptions, cold sores, chapped hands, etc. Its absolute purity, also, makes it the ideal balm for babies.

Zam-Buk soap should be used along with the balm for washing all sore places. This soap will be found excellent for baby's bath, even where the balm is not being used.

All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at 50c. box, and Zam-Buk Soap at 25c. tablet, or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse harmful imitations.

RICH IN GOLD

Wonderful Discoveries of the Yellow Metal in Labrador

The steamer Kite arrived in St. John's, Nfld., after a three months' voyage, in which she was supposed to have been trading in Northern Labrador. Two men had chartered the Kite for this voyage. They were S. S. Emsley, of Ottawa, Ontario, and Richard White, of St. John's. One of the sailors on the Kite was on shore leave, and in a mellow moment exhibited a three-ounce nugget of almost virgin gold, which, he said, he had dug out of a vein with a pocketknife during the voyage of this vessel.

As a result it has been learned that the voyage was a prospect, which is reported to have shown the great wealth of upper Labrador and Baffin's Land to be a gold bed far richer than the Klondike or Yukon.

Closer inquiry disclosed that the return cargo of the Kite, as shown by her entry at the Customs House, was five tons of gold-bearing samples. The placer stuff was a quantity of gravel dug out of the rivers and dry beds in mountain valleys of Baffin's Land, which averaged a quarter of an ounce of gold to a pound of panning, the richest find that has been made since the days of the scattered pockets of California.

Emsley and Smith refused to say anything about their discoveries, or to tell how they first explored and prospected over the country where they were back to gather samples of ore, quartz, and gold-bearing sands. It was in a part of this unknown land that Hubbard, the daring explorer, with a well-equipped expedition, lost his life. The Kite expedition went as far north as Pond's Inlet, but the gathering ice blocked their voyage twenty miles further north to the Elk River, which Emsley and Smith were trying to gain to claim the wealth the land had shown them.

RICH ORE IN THE WEST

Dave Morgan Made a Good Strike in the Chance Claim

News has reached Revelstoke, British Columbia, that a rich strike has been made on the Chance mine claim, by Dave Morgan. This property is an extension of the famous Tribune mine to the south, and lies in the same belt as the Silver Cup mine. Mr. Morgan has been engaged in driving a tunnel to the surface at depth. In the last drift from the face of the tunnel he struck six inches of high-grade ore in three feet, and the indications point to the vein enlarging as depth is attained. The drift to the west of the face of the tunnel will also be extended to cross cut a second vein that is seen on the surface, but is showing a westerly dip in the mountain.

When it is known that the surface ore gave returns of 200 ounces of silver and $5 in gold in one assay, while the lower vein has given returns of about 400 ounces to the ton some idea of the magnitude and richness of the find may be estimated.

"It is the longest sermon I ever have preached or ever will preach," he said, "for I intend to take the Bible and go through it from the first chapter of Genesis to the last of Revelation," said Rev. Under the law he has the right to address the court.

YOUNG AT NINETY

Former High Commissioner Made a Two-Hour Stay in Ottawa

A little rosy-cheeked old gentleman, with beaming white eyebrows, and a beaming smile, stopped lightly off the private car Matapedia at Ottawa and chuckled gleefully at the sight of Sir Sanford Fleming, his old-time friend.

The little old gentleman was Lord Strathcona, who had come to spend the whole of two hours and forty-five minutes in the capital in one of his characteristic rushes.

They say that Lord Strathcona is 91 years old, but somebody must be wrong somewhere. Lord Strathcona, he's really more than 35 or 40. He had been travelling for ten days at a dizzy clip, and wound up with a swing round Ottawa that came near to fracturing the speed regulations in several places.

The Premier-elect was on the platform to greet him, as were Sir William Mackenzie and several other gentlemen. His Lordship had a hearty hand-grip and a broad smile for everybody. His intention was to go at once to the house owned by the Bank of Montreal on O'Connor Street, but he suddenly changed his mind, and flew up to the East Block for a few moments' chat with Sir Wilfrid.

The two came blithely down the steps, jumped into a motor, and went careering off to Government House for a few moments. Back to town they came after a short stay, and then Lord Strathcona shot off at a merry clip to call on Mr. Borden on Warrenburg Street. His various greetings were too much for the corps of newspaper men who were trying to see him, and who got dizzy trying to follow his flying motor around town. He finally got back to the station just in time to board his private car before the Montreal train pulled out.

TO FRENCH CANADIANS

Earl Grey's Eloquent Reference to the People of Quebec

Earl Grey, before leaving Canada, made the following tribute to French Canadians: "The people of Canada are to be congratulated," he said, "on their good fortune in possessing so large an infusion of Gallic culture, civility and charm in their national composition. It will be vain for the minority of French descent, should they even desire to do so, to dream of ever establishing a racial ascendancy on this side of the Atlantic; but it is equally obvious that the right they possess to regulate their own development uncheckered by any outside interference, a right which will be enjoyed by the Province of Quebec and by every self-governing portion of the British Empire, so long as the British Empire endures, will always be respected." The speaker added that he regarded the inhabitants of the Province of Quebec as most loyal subjects of the Crown. "I know," said he, "that when the interests of the British Crown, on whose strength they depend for the continuance of their liberties, are endangered, the people of Quebec will produce an example of loyalty which will thrill the whole world."

USEFUL INFORMATION

Dishes which have contained dough or pastry should be washed in cold, not hot, water. The hot water cooks the dough and so makes it much harder to remove.

For scrubbing kettles that have been burned or for removing food that has stuck to the pan in the process of cooking, nothing is better than a piece of very coarse sandpaper.

A simple way to clean plain pieces of silver is by placing it in a pan in which have been put one quart of cold water and a tablespoonful of washing soda. When the water begins to boil the silver should be removed and immediately wiped.

Batters should be beaten well and then allowed to stand some time before using, in order that the air may pass into them.

The eldest of that family has been married over a year, and a representative of the fifth generation was born.

CARPING CRITICS AND SMALL BORE MEN.

The Advocate comes back at the U.F.A. question and, after considerable whitewash of Mr. Bower, says the farmers who have been censuring the U.F.A. for taking part in the political campaign just ended have been straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel; and further remarks that a "Government which staked its political life on an issue demanded by the organized farmers of Canada, was entitled to all the support these farmers could give." There is where the whole mistake was made. When the farmers went to Ottawa they did not go to demand reciprocity. It was the things Mr. Borden promised them they asked for. They also asked for reduction of duty on implements, which the Laurier Government refused them. The reciprocity cry came after, and the government, instead of bringing on the pact to suit the farmers, tried to get the farmers of Canada to bark them up in their ill-advised policy, but the farmers of Canada as a whole turned it down. The Advocate has merely got the cart before the horse.

The Advocate further says: "Mr. Borden has opposed the farmers' leaders and farmers' papers of Canada in this reciprocity fight, and he had the majority of the Canadian people behind him. But, none the less, Mr. Borden, like a wise leader, is anxious to placate these men and meet their wishes in other respects, but he certainly cannot do it as he would if the farmers go quarreling among themselves over technicalities relating to an issue which, for the present at least, is buried." That is very nice, and the News agrees with such noble sentiment, but when our editor says a farmer, for opposing reciprocity and the stand the U.F.A. took, is a carping critic, a small bore man, and sundry other insulting names, we take issue with it, because many farmers in this district opposed the pact from conscientious motives—loyal citizens who could not be swayed or intimidated into doing what they considered would be a great injury to their country. Every man is entitled to his opinions, and the Advocate does not strengthen its case by sneering at those who differ with it on this question. The important political effects may follow the action of Canada both in England and in our own country. Before now causes less effective in their appeal to national feeling have powerfully stimulated imperial sentiment, and turned the immediate course of British politics. Some such effect, in greater or less degree, may be expected now.

THEY THINK MORE OF US.

Those Americans, who have got over their pique, regard with increasing admiration this young nation which has had the self-reliance to declare so emphatically against continentalism and the Empire. The Chicago Inter-Ocean prints this letter from a correspondent: "A rejected suitor's disparagement of the lady who has declined his proposal stamps himself as a cad in any grade, high or low, of civilized society. The man who is honorably beaten in any game—recreative, financial or political—and grudges a good word for his adversary is a 'poor sport' the world over. Mr. Borden, Canada's next premier, may have some 'fool friends' on his own side of the border, but he has many more fool foes on this side, and poor sports whose indulgence in brag, bluff and bluster makes judicious Americans grieve."

The San Francisco Argonaut, an able written journal with a world-wide reputation, comments thus on the defeat of reciprocity: "There was an appeal to loyal sentiment, always and everywhere effective among men of the Anglo-Saxon race. And this appeal was well founded, for it was a certainty that the reciprocal arrangement would have involved a closer relationship between Canada and the United States, with a corresponding weakening of the tie between the Dominion and the Mother Country. On both sides of the line this was vehemently denied, but Americans Canadians alike felt it in their hearts to be true. In England it was felt universally that acceptance by Canada of the American proposal would be a first and a long step towards separation—nothing less, in fact, than a beginning of disintegration of the Empire. Important political effects may follow the action of Canada both in England and in our own country. Before now causes less effective in their appeal to national feeling have powerfully stimulated imperial sentiment, and turned the immediate course of British politics. Some such effect, in greater or less degree, may be expected now.

THE ADVOCATE STUNT.

Last week the Advocate got off the following: "Mr. Borden's government had barely been in office two weeks before our friend the News was publishing what it used to denounce as 'Government pap'—in the shape of government advertisements. Now why should the News have held up the Advocate to the bitter scorn of this hard world as selling its opinions for filthy lucre, and then fall before the same temptation the first chance it gets."

We repudiate the insinuation with scorn. We did not ask for the ad, and therefore could not promise anything for it. The new government, be it understood, advertises only in first class papers—papers with circulation, influence and a high moral tone, as befitting a clean, progressive administration. Thus it fell to the lot of The News to be called on to publish the above mentioned ad, and after mature consideration to brave the scorn of a cold, cold world in the fond hope that perhaps after fifteen or twenty years' faithful service we might be further honored by being appointed to the high and lofty position of census enumerator.

A MISLEADING STATEMENT.

(Calgary Herald.) Another instance of the unreliability of Premier Sifton was afforded at a recent meeting of his in the constituency of Gleichen. He had been taxed with the fact that his government had done little for roads and bridges in the Gleichen district and he replied by the bold assertion that Gleichen had received more money for roads and bridges than any other constituency in Alberta. Mr. Sifton's intention was evident ly to convey to the farmers of Gleichen the impression that they had been as generously treated by his government, more generously in fact, than those of any other district in the province. It turns out, however, that the expenditure on roads and bridges which had rolled up a wonderful total for Gleichen constituency had been consumed largely in the Bow River bridge in the city of Calgary and some other works of the same character. And it was pointed out at Strathmore on Thursday night that the rural districts of Gleichen were practically devoid of conveniences such as needed in this respect. It is instances of this kind that cause many people to lose faith in the present Liberal government of Alberta. Mr. Sifton is clever, but he appears to be tricky. He does not hesitate to mislead if by misleading he can gain a political point. His bold assertion that the recent federal government had arranged to return to Alberta its natural resources was a case in point. Time showed that there was no proof or justification for his assertion, which was only made to help his political friends. It is not worthy of a provincial premier to attempt to deceive the electors of Gleichen as Mr. Sifton did in this case. His statement is only a further illustration of the same tactics that led the people of that riding to believe that they were going to have an experimental farm when all the time Hon. Duncan Marshall, minister of agriculture, was laying pipes to have the farm in his own riding of Olds.

There is no objection to the expenditures which Mr. Sifton referred to. There is much objection to his using them in a misleading manner before the electors of Gleichen.

THE VALUE OF

SMALL SAVINGS.

If a young man 15 years of age were determined to save three car fares a week, and to pay the 15 cents thus saved every week until he was 60 to the Canadian Government for the purchase of an annuity, the result of his thrift would be that from and after 60 he would receive $25.18 every 3 months so long as he lived. If he died before he was 60, all he had paid in with three per cent. compound interest would be refunded to his heirs, and if he died just before his first instalment of annuity fell due his heirs would inherit $71.70. A postcard sent to the Superintendent of Canadian Government, Annuities, Ottawa, giving your age last birthday, will secure you information as to what an Annuity will cost.

The great coal strike in the Crow's Nest Pass mines is at last settled. This was in a large measure due to the efforts of Hon. Robert Rogers, the new Minister of the Interior in the Borden cabinet, and rebounds greatly to that gentleman's credit. The whole west will be glad to hear of the settlement and will breathe more freely, as it would have entailed great misery on the prairie provinces to be short of coal during the severe weather of winter.

The Victoria Colonist says: At the present time party politics in British Columbia are as dead as Julius Caesar. There is no opposition because there is nothing upon which either the federal or provincial government can be opposed, and there is no leader of an Opposition in sight, if there were issues to contend over. We do not suppose that this state of things can continue indefinitely, but as a matter of record it is well to mention the fact that it exists today.

Census Gives Canada A Population of 7,081,869

Great Gains in Western Provinces

The decennial census taken in June last under the direction of Hon. Sydney Fisher is sorely disappointing. The census of 1901 showed a total population of 5,371,315. The late government promised that the count in June would give a total of eight millions. The total, with only four electoral districts to bear from, is officially given by Hon. Martin Ball as 7,081,869. The probable addition to this is only 70,000.

In view of the revelations of wholesale negligence by census enumerators, as made prior to the dissolution of parliament, the small total announced today is significant. Ontario is credited with an increase of 336,955. Quebec has an increase of 351,799. An enormous increase is credited to Saskatchewan, the 1901 total being 31,279 and the 1911 total 453,568.

The result on the parliamentary representation appears to be that Prince Edward Island loses one member, Nova Scotia two, New Brunswick two, and Ontario four, while the western provinces gain five members each, making a house of two hundred and thirty-two members. Four electoral districts have not yet made complete returns, viz., Cumberland in Nova Scotia, Regina, and Battleford in Saskatchewan, and Yale-Carleton in British Columbia, which are estimated to give a population of 70,000.

Population of Canada by census of 1911, less districts not reported, as compared with 1901:

POPULATION BY PROVINCES.

	1911	1901
Alberta	372,919	73,022
British Columbia	302,763	178,657
Manitoba	451,561	255,211
New Brunswick	351,815	331,120

District Court

(Before His Honor Judge Lees.)

Re: v. Wells. This was an appeal by the defendant, Roy Wells, against a conviction against him in the magistrate's court of $25 and costs for infraction of the transient traders by-law of the Town of Red Deer. Wells and Arthur Loselle, his brother-in-law, were running off some of the Town authorities got after Mr. Loselle for his license, and Mr. Loselle stated that the goods belonged to Mr. Wells. Action was taken against Mr. Wells, with the above result. The appeal turned mainly on the question of Mr. Wells being a resident of Red Deer, and His Honor held that the Town had not satisfied him that Mr. Wells, despite temporary absences, had not been a bona-fide resident of Red Deer for more than the six months required by the by-law. The appeal was sustained with costs against the Town. Mr. Greene for the Town, Mr. Robinson and Russell, for defendant.

Hill v. Getzelman. Action by W. Hill to recover $55 from Fritz Getzelman, balance claimed over a series of financial transactions between the parties. The plaintiff produced a measure of corroborative evidence, and his claim was sustained with costs. Mr. Robinson for plaintiff, Mr. Payne for defence.

Getzelman v. Millward. Action by Fritz Getzelman against A. Millward, formerly of the Evans hotel, for $10 due on some notes. Mr. Millward counterclaimed for $30 on bar and telephone account. The Judge held the bar account not proved, but found for $1.55, contra on telephone account. Verdicts were given for plaintiff of $40 and costs, and for defendant of $1.55 and costs. Mr. Payne for plaintiff, Mr. Robinson for defendant.

Rowland v. Joyce. Action to recover $70, balance wages alleged due plaintiff for working in Mr. Joyce's sawmill. There appeared to be a difference of opinion as to whether plaintiff was to be paid $35 or $40 a month, and Mr. Joyce claimed his left without notice, necessitating considerable inconvenience and loss before his place could be filled, which inconveniences and loss more than offset any claim for wages. In the evidence an I.O.U. of Mr. Joyce's to plaintiff for $47 turned up, and the Judge held that this was the settlement agreed upon, and gave judgment for this amount with costs. Mr. Robinson for plaintiff, Mr. Payne for defence.

The other cases were either settled out of court or adjourned to the next sittings.

Cane For Taft

From Alberta

Valued at $5,000 and Cut from Old Stump by Professor W. S. Foster

Spokane, Wash., Oct. 14.—President Taft has among the souvenirs of his western trip a cane cut from a stump, which scientists declare was a tree before the glacial period. The wood was found in the valley of the south fork of the Old Man river in the southern part of the Province of Alberta by Professor W. S. Foster, a geologist and explorer, living in Spokane. The cane, which is valued at $5,000, was presented by Edwin T. Coman, president of the chamber of commerce, on behalf of the people of Spokane.

FOUND IN PEAT BED.
"The stump, which stood in a peat bed, was found beneath 60 feet of glacial wash," said Professor Foster, giving a history of the discovery, and preserved to the present day by one of the wonderful freaks of nature. The peat, from which the stump was taken, is on a sandstone formation and is about three feet in thickness. Seaweeds and flag-stocks found nearby also were well preserved.

"This peat bed was uncovered by the wearing away of the glacial wash by floods and the flow of the Old Man river. There is not the least question in my mind that the tree grew before the glacial period, more than 250,000 years ago, but so far I have not been able to ascertain the kind of wood it is.

FOUND IN FRANK DISTRICT.
"The discovery was made not long ago in the Frank district, which is 250 miles north of Spokane and fully 400 miles east of the Pacific Ocean. The presence of well-preserved seaweed and flag-stocks in abundance, buried under 60 feet of glacial deposit, appears to be sufficient proof of its antiquity, though I have much other evidence of scientific character to bear out all my assertions."
"More than that, I am prepared to satisfy any one posted on such things by showing them the stump from which the wood was cut, also the formation in which the discovery was made."

Sour Stomach

Is An Almost Certain Sign of Acute Indigestion.

If you occasionally have a taste of sour food in your mouth, it surely shows that the food you are eating is not being digested, but instead, is fermenting and giving out poisonous gases.

Belching of gas is a common symptom at such times, and also that lump of lead feeling, as if your stomach was carrying a much greater load than it could stand.

If you want prompt relief and permanent cure, go to Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. and get a large tin of Mi-on-a tablets for 50 cents.

Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. know that Mi-on-a is a highly recommended scientific remedy, and that is why they are ready to return your money if it fails to cure acid stomach, belching of gas, dizziness, biliousness, sick headache, foul breath, and all stomach troubles.

A MAMMOTH SQUASH

It increased in Size Over Two Inches a Day

Mr. H. Jordan, Dorden Street, Toronto, is the proud possessor of a mammoth Boston marrow, sometimes known as a German squash. Its circumference is slightly over 71 inches, and the diameter about 24 inches. "Neighbors," Mrs. Jordan stated, "have placed bets that it will weigh as much as 100 pounds. On the 6th of August it was no larger than a good size orange. Our attention was first drawn to it by its rapid growth. So noticeable was this that we measured it daily and found that its diameter increased from two to two and a half inches a day, which record was sustained till a week ago, when it fell off to one inch a day."

It is quite apparent that the squash is not yet mature. It hangs from a trellis work over which the vine has grown and is about four feet above the ground. It was found necessary to construct a platform under it, as the stem of the vine was not sufficiently strong to carry the great weight of the squash.

DUNCAN McMARTIN

Left Home Without a Dollar to His Name, Now On Easy Street

The story of the poor lad who leaves home to make his way in the world, and who returns to his native place as a self-made and honorable man of affairs can never lose its charm. There is too much life and action, too much vim and nerve in such a struggle for the narrative to grow dull and uninteresting. This is the history, in a word, of Duncan McMartin. Born thirty-seven years ago at St. Raphael's, one of Glenagry's historic farmsteads, Duncan inherited from his father, Alan McMartin, the priceless advantage of United Empire Loyalist blood in his veins. Glenagrians will cherish the memories of that party of seventy-five Loyalists, consisting mainly of McMartins and their kindred, who forsook the United States in 1783, abandoning their homes and all the comforts of life, and came to Canada, their devotion to the British throne.

When Duncan left the old farm in his early teens, he carried half a dollar to his name, he took Horace Greeley's historic advice, going as far as British Columbia. He engaged in what is probably the hardest kind of work, driving teams before railways were built, and later engaging himself in railway construction. Years of close application and tireless activity, combined with a phenomenal business acumen, have brought their reward, and Mr. McMartin now finds himself on Easy Street.

FINE RESIDENCE FOR GOVERNOR

The New Home of the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario Will Be Palatial

No residence in Toronto will equal that of his Honor the Lieutenant Governor of this province according to the plans and preparations of Mr. F. H. Henkes, who planned and designed both the building and the landscape effect for the new property in Chorley Park. The Chateau Frontenac in Quebec, and the Hotel Laurier in Ottawa are practically the only consistently carried out French chateau designs in Canada. In Chorley Park house will be built a French renaissance chateau consistently carried out. It will be more elaborately finished than the Chateau Frontenac, though, of course, not so large. Its windows will look out over a magnificent prospect of woods, valleys and gullies. Around its walls will circle a terrace with a stone balustrade overlooking the tree tops of a steep gully leading down to the old Belt Line tracks. In front of the porte cochere will extend a balustraded brick-paved court, connected by a bridge over a gully, with a circular outer court, also brick-paved and balustraded. A drive leads from the outer court over another bridge to Roxborough Avenue. Down stone steps from the terrace on the lower flat will be situated the tennis court, surrounded by trees, with a view into the beautiful valley of the Don. North-east of the main building on the edge of the ravine is the site for the stable and garage. The servant wing stretches out from the main building on an unconventional slanting angle, with kitchen, scullery, serving pantry, servants' dining-room and sitting-room, bed rooms, and everything complete and all practically detached from the main building.

Where the grounds are level on the north and west, a stone wall will form the outer boundary on the ravine side, to the east and south the terrace will be supported by a retaining wall of concrete reinforced by twisted steel rods and wire mesh blinding. In one place this wall will be 30 feet high, with almost a bird's-eye view of natural forest grounds reaching down away into the valley. The house itself will be built of grey Credit Valley stone. The contract for the stone work was let to Fred Holmes and Son at $125,000. The front entrance, or porte cochere, leads first to a vestibule, then to a large circular lobby, behind which is the grand hall. The latter will be open for three storeys to a skylight, with a balustrade at each story. To the right of the hall a State reception room and drawing room are arranged en suite. To the left a magnificent State dining room and a private dining room for the Lieutenant-Governor's family on ordinary occasions. At the rear of the Grand Hall is an immense hall-room, with an alcove and a veranda overlooking the ravine. The living room adjoins the main hall on the east, with a palm-room of glass and a writing-room.

The building will have a frontage of 160 feet, with a depth of almost as much. With three storeys, a tile roof, and its pointed turret towers, it will follow somewhat the lines of the French palaces. The inside construction will be carried out in marble and wood. The color scheme has not yet been decided. Steel and terra cotta provide practically for fire-proof construction.

SIR LOMER MARRIED
Quebec Premier's Marriage to Miss Amos Solemnized at St. James Church, Montreal

The marriage of Sir Lomer Gouin, Premier of the Province of Quebec, to Miss Alice Amos, Montreal, took place very quietly at St. James Cathedral, Dominion Square, only immediate relatives and intimate friends being present. The ceremony, which was performed by His Grace Archbishop Bruchési, assisted by Rev. Father Gouin, brother of the bridegroom, took place in one of the small chapels at the church, which had been decorated for the occasion.

Punctually at nine o'clock, as the bride entered the west door of the cathedral, the triumphant strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Mr. Pelletier, pealed forth, filling the building to its remotest corners.

Preceding the ceremony itself Archbishop Bruchési, having donned his bishop's cape and mitre and taken in his hand the massive gold crozier, the insignia of his priestly office, addressed the bride and bridegroom in a brief sermon, reminding them of the sacred importance of the step they were about to take.

The Premier was supported by Sir Louis Jetté, Miss Augustine Boyer acting as witness for the bride, who was gowning in taupe satin with hat to match.

Following a wedding breakfast which was served at the Windsor Hotel, Sir Lomer and Lady Gouin left for New York, where part of their honeymoon trip was spent.

Montreal's presented Sir Lomer with a solid silver tea service in honor of the occasion, comprising seven pieces. He was also presented with a dinner service of solid silver by the Liberal members of the Legislative Assembly, both gifts having been made especially for him.

ELECTRICITY ON FARM
Satisfactory Test at John Prouse's in West Oxford

A highly satisfactory test with Hydro-electric power was made on the farm of Mr. John Prouse, West-Oxford, when a large number of farmers gathered to witness the process of silo-filling by the aid of the current. Among those in attendance was Hon. Charles Mackenzie, Chairman of the Hydro-electric Commission, the Ingersoll Power and Light Commissioners, and a number of representative farmers. Mr. Prouse has installed an equipment which is being operated by Niagara power, and which worked very satisfactorily in the test. Mr. Prouse has had his residence wired, as well as his barns and out-buildings, even to the milk-house, probably being the first farmer in western Ontario to adopt the "white coal" for agricultural purposes.

Tribute to Sir Wilfrid
Inspired by patriotism and enthusiasm for his art, and with the object of paying a tribute to Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Mr. D. Beauchamp has just finished an illustrated copy of Sir Wilfrid's message to the Canadian people on the eve of the dissolution of Parliament. Five weeks have sufficed for the accomplishment of Mr. Beauchamp's self-appointed task, and had he worked less than ten hours every day, he could not have finished his work so quickly. One whole week was spent in perfecting the map, which shows dimly through the inscription, and for the drawing of the little circles which decorate the border, one whole day proved almost too short. Around the message there is a chain made of large and small links, the large ones each containing a pithy extract from the message.

LAURIER WIT
Sir Wilfrid Laurier is one of the thinnest of parliamentarians, and his ready wit on one occasion at least turned his physical slenderness to account in political combat. One day a portly Conservative opponent arose in the chamber and accused Sir Wilfrid of "fattening on the toil and sweat of the people." Laurier smiled and said sweetly: "I leave this House to judge which of us two is more exposed to that charge."—London Daily Chronicle.

C. P. R. IRRIGATION
Sir Thomas Shaughnessy says that the C.P.R. in constructing their irrigation ditches and works at the Hornedown on the New River, moved every day half as much earth as is moved on the Panama Canal.

When completed the irrigation works will reclaim 1,000,000 acres of land. Of this amount over 400,000 acres will be thoroughly irrigated and 600,000 acres affected to a greater or lesser extent.

"To fully irrigate the land costs us $20 per acre, but the average cost of the million acres will run between $8 and $9 per acre."

MAIL SERVICE TO CANADA
The New Zealand Parliament has empowered the Government to establish, in conjunction with Canada, a mail service between Auckland, New South Wales, and Vancouver, B.C., providing for the receipt and despatch of mails once in every four weeks.

BERNIER COMING BACK

He is Heard of After Absence of Six Months

Capt. Bernier, the Canadian Arctic explorer, is back from a year's cruise in the far north. Bernier wintered in the arctic seas, and had not been heard from for over six months, when the Arctic was reported off Point Amosin on the Labrador coast. Capt. Bernier's long silence, and the uncertainty as to the exact whereabouts of the Arctic, had caused some anxiety in official circles in Ottawa. The return by way of Labrador suggests that Capt. Bernier failed in his intention of making the northwest passage.

E. MICHENER SPEAKS AT CALGARY

An Able Address Dealing with Conservative Platform

Leader of the Opposition in Good Form

E. Michener, M.P.P., leader of the Conservative party in the local legislature, delivered a most forceful and able address in Calgary last week in the interests of Mr. Tweedie.

Mr. Michener, who had a most enthusiastic reception, said: It affords me great pleasure to have this opportunity of discussing provincial issues with a Calgary audience. I am glad to see the ladies take an interest in the public questions of the day as well as the gentlemen. Recently at a convention of women in this city I see that they passed a resolution demanding that they be accorded the same privileges and rights of citizenship as the men enjoy. I don't know whether the time will ever come when men will be unselfish enough to accord these privileges or not, but I am sure that we can go as far as to night as the late Mr. Gladstone, who said upon one occasion that he thought every woman should either have a vote or a voter. (Laughter.) And tonight if there are any ladies present who, perchance, have not a voter you will not be at a disadvantage, for it has been well said that the lady who has not a voter sometimes influences more votes than the ladies who have that privilege. I am sure that when you hear Mr. Tweedie speak you will use your influence to have him returned at the head of the poll on the 31st of the present month." (At this point Mr. Bennett entered the hall and was loudly cheered.) Continuing, Mr. Michener said: I am glad to have the opportunity of speaking on behalf of Mr. Tweedie, the standard bearer of the Conservative party in the city of Calgary. He is a gentleman who commands himself in the highest degree to the citizens of this city, a gentleman who stands high in the esteem of the members of his profession. He has made a reputation as an able solicitor or throughout the province. I am sure that if you elect him as your representative he will exercise the same strength on the floor of the house at Edmonton as he has in the conduct of his own affairs.

STRONG OPPOSITION.
It is important in the interests of good government that we have a strong opposition in the legislature in the city of Edmonton. I think that if the opposition in the legislature of this province had been stronger from the beginning we could have saved many things which we now wish had never taken place. If we had had a strong opposition during the first term of the legislature of this young province the course of events might have been a great deal different.

I have just completed a tour of the constituencies in which the by-elections are at present taking place and I believe that these constituencies will, on the 31st of this month, return as representatives four Conservatives as members to the house at Edmonton. (Cheers.)

It is my privilege as leader of the opposition to criticize the government wherein we believe they come short of the responsibilities of office. It is also my privilege not only to criticize but to submit to you and to the electors generally of this province, a policy which we believe will more effectively develop the resources of this province, build up the interests of the country at large.

SIFTON'S SENTIMENTS.
The premier of this province, the leader of the government in power, stated during last session upon the floor of the house that he could conceive of no higher duty than to advance the interests of the party which he represented. Now I think that is not a sentiment which the premier of the province should allow himself to express. It would be more becoming were he to conceive it as his supreme duty and privilege to advance the great interests of this province, irrespective of party. I believe that we should put country before party; we should be Albertans instead of partisans, and statesmen rather than politicians.

The gentleman stumping the country at the present time on behalf of the Liberal party telling the people of the glories of the Liberalism of the past and the splendid principles of the party he represents. I think a great deal of the Liberalism enunciated by such men as Gladstone, I have also a great respect for the Liberalism of a man like our own George Brown. I also believe that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will find a brilliant page in Canadian history. But when we turn the earlight upon the party in power in Alberta there seems to be nothing of Liberalism and its glories but an empty name. The Liberal party of this province reminds me of a certain man down in the southern states who was called Colonel. One day he was asked what side he fought in the war and he replied that he did not fight on either. He was asked why he was called Colonel, and he said, "Well, it was this way. His wife's first husband was a Colonel and he was his successor." (Laughter.) The party in power in this province today may be successors of the former glories of Liberalism, but all that would appear to remain of that grandeur is the name.

A SPLENDID CHANCE.

No government ever had a better chance to make good. They started with a clean sheet. They had a unique opportunity to develop the resources of this country and to build up its institutions. One would think that they would have conceived it to be their highest duty to be possessed by a patriotic ambition to hand down a history which would be worthy of the party that was in power. But, sir, what do we find? In place of filling their first page with credit and glory, we find their record to be one of lost opportunities and dismal failures. There are blots made upon that fair page with which they started to write history, that will never be effaced so long as Alberta remains a province.

The first mistake was when they accepted office and power by sacrifice of the great heritage of our public domains and the other resources of the province, selling our birthright for a mess of pottage and for a lease of temporary power.

NATURAL RESOURCES.

With regard to the resources of this province, let me say that these resources, we have contended as a party—we have consistently and persistently contended—should have been handed over to the control of the provincial government. In 1905 the people of this province said we do not want them. Many of the prominent Liberals of that day said that the grant of $375,000 was a splendid thing for the province in lieu of the lands and other resources. They chose rather to be wards of the government like the Indians. Judged by their record we can thank Heaven that they did not have our natural resources under their control. They have made such an all round failure that we naturally wonder what would become of our splendid natural resources if they had had the disposal of them, notwithstanding that senators and members of the house of commons have appropriated vast areas of timber and coal lands. I say that notwithstanding that, fact, we are today in a better position with regard to our resources than if they had been under the control of the party that has been in power in this province.

Now, however, the day has come when the people believe that we should have the control of all the lands and mineral resources of the province.

WHAT MCHIBIDE HAS DONE.

When Mr. McIbide took the reins of government in British Columbia, that province was bankrupt, their credit gone. But Mr. McIbide in his able administration of these natural resources has raised that province to such a position financially that he has not only provided for all the public debt, but he has also created an immense revenue. This revenue, last year in B.C. was $5,000,000; $2,000,000 from sale of lands, and $3,000,000 from the sale of timber and other leaves. In this province, last year, notwithstanding the fact that the Liberals, told us in 1905 that the revenue from the Dominion was sufficient to pay the interest on the debt of the lands in the province. Last year the Dominion received from our four land offices the sum of $1,100,000, whereas we received of that sum only a paltry $375,000. When I call to the attention of the premier of that province to the fact he said in answer, "Yes, but that does not include the expenses of the administration of those land offices." I say that if the Liberal party in power cannot administer these offices for the difference between $375,000 and $1,100,000—perhaps there is not as great a rake-off as in the case of the A. & G. W. bond—then I think they ought to stand aside and let the Conservative party have a chance to do so. (Applause.)

PROVINCE HEAVILY IN DEBT.

They told us that they had sufficient revenue to meet all the necessary expenditures of this province. But what do we find? We find that after two years, on the admission of the premier, that we are $3,300,000 in debt. When Premier Sifton was asked last session what the indebtedness of the province was, he replied that the total indebtedness was $5,200,000. He tells us today that the provincial indebtedness is $3,000,000. In other words the provincial indebtedness has increased since one year ago some $4,000,000. I do not know of a more striking example of frenzied finance than that.

We are not only indebted to this extent but we are responsible for $7,400,000 worth of bonds for the A. & G. W. In addition to this again there are claims against this province for over $3,000,000 in connection with the confiscation of this money, not to speak of an enormous loss of interest annually. If the banks are justified as they claim to be in not paying interest on this money. Add these sums together and I ask how many ears it would take to wipe out that $7,400,000. We have a total indebtedness of over $16,000,000. Now in regard to the debt of a city like Calgary, you have provided for that by direct taxation, and a man who owns one hundred thousand dollars worth of property in this city pays $2,000 a year in taxes. Instead, the province, as you know, has no provision for the repayment of its indebtedness. When the premier of this province was asked how he proposed to pay this debt, he replied that he didn't propose to pay it back at all, but to renew it.

(Laughter.) I do not know whether you consider it good business or not to create debts without making some provision for their redemption.

TEMPORARY LOAN.

The present government has made a temporary loan to offset the $7,400,000 in the banks until such time as it is available, and has put this amount into current account, first paying an overdraft of $2,600,000. This overdraft existed at the time the present government came into power and civil servants had received no pay for months because the government credit was gone and the government could loan them no more money. This was paid and the balance of the money borrowed was put into current account. How is he going to meet the expenses of next year? What other railway will he construct and rob? (Laughter.) I confess that if I had any interest in the G.T.P. or the C.N.R. I would feel uneasy as to what might happen next with such a premier in power in the province.

SITUATION MISREPRESENTED.

Now one of your Calgary papers has persistently misrepresented our position and sought to mislead the electors of this province as to the position I have personally taken as the leader of the Opposition. And when such a paper will deliberately misrepresent its opponents and try to create a false impression upon so great an issue, I say that the editor of that paper is not measuring up to the confidence placed in him.

I believe in a square deal and believe that papers that have the high responsibility of creating public sentiment in this country can do nothing more damaging to the citizenship of this province than to misrepresent their opponents upon a great public issue. (Cheers.)

I tried to put our position plainly before the people. The people all know that the Conservative party took strong ground against that bargain. It was through them that its badness was exposed and that ultimately the government had to go down and out. But when Premier Sifton took the reins of power we all know what his solution was. What was the proposition of the Conservative party in that amendment? We did not have any more use for the Clarks than the Liberal party. The premier of the province is responsible for the government of the province since the last election, and his party is responsible for the A. & G. W. with all its ugliness. The very fact that the premier of the province has in his government a member of the late government who upheld the deal is proof that their skirts are not clean. And yet the editor of the Alberta dares to insinuate that the Conservative party is responsible for that deal and for the suggestion to turn over the money to the Clarks of Kansas City. It is an insult to the electors of the province. What the Conservative party proposed was simply that we should not do anything dishonorable or unfair. In the United States no state legislature has any power to loan from any individual anything without due process of law. But in Canada we have that power and the premier has used it as a big boy playing marbles with a smaller boy would use his might to take away the marbles from the little fellow. But that power that we have in Canada is supposed to be restricted by moral equity and a sense of the rights of others. It is a question now for the courts to decide and perhaps for the privy council.

BUSINESS MEN NEEDED.

Mr. Michener further touched upon the need for an administration on business lines by business men rather than by professional politicians of whom the country was heartily tired. He suggested that possibly a few lawyers might be allowed in the house, and this suggestion raised a loud laugh in view of the fact that so many distinguished members of the legal profession were present on the platform. Mr. Michener dealt at some length with the crying need throughout the province of trunk roads and bridges rather than public and parliament buildings and a university built far in advance of the needs at the present time. He referred also at some length to the need of some system of drainage, both as a foundation for good roads and for the reclamation of valuable lands for agricultural purposes.

It was also shown by the leader of the opposition how the government could vastly benefit the agricultural interests of the province by setting aside from the public income a sum of ten millions for loaning to home-owners who had received their patents at a low rate of interest. The government could secure this money at 4 per cent and charge the farmers 5 per cent and so save $300,000 a year as against the high rates of interest most of which was going out of the province. The government could also make 100,000 dollars at 1 per cent and this amount of money would defray all expenses and have a handsome surplus for further loaning to the farmers of the province.

MACHINE POLITICS.

The growing tendency in the politics of this province to indulge in machine methods was dealt with. Mr. Michener mentioned the fact that certain officials of the government who were paid for work that was simply departmental and not in any sense political, were being used and kept busy in various parts of the province in connection with the by-elections, now going on in the province. It was pointed out that while the people of Gleichen had been agitating for many months for public telephones, it was only last Saturday that gangs of men under a party heeler and C.I.T. organizer had been put to work in the town of Gleichen. Similar things were being done in various parts of the province.

Mr. Michener, in closing, expressed the hope that Mr. Tweedie would be returned on the 31st of this month by a very large majority. The speech of the able leader of the Opposition was cheered at many points and was received with pleasure and satisfaction.

FOREST WASTE IN THE STATES

Startling Statements as to How Natural Wealth Has Been Depleted

Canadians will read with interest a special article in the Chicago Tribune by Frank G. Carpenter, who discusses the depletion of the forest wealth of the United States. He says in part: "The northern forest has lost 40 per cent. of its area, the southern almost as much, and of the central forest more than one-half has been cleared. Of the Rocky Mountain woods we have still 80 per cent. and of the Pacific coast forest almost as much. Altogether we have remaining about 2,500,000,000 feet of timber, and of this one-fifth belongs to the government. It is being properly cared for. The balance is in the hands of private individuals, of corporations, syndicates, and trusts, and it is going so fast that if the present rate continues in twenty or twenty-five years it will be all cut away. In 1898 the trees that went into timber were enough to have made a board walk 1,000 feet wide running through the centre of the earth from one side to the other. The amount was more than 44,000,000,000 feet. Board measure; and in addition a vast amount of wood was used for other purposes. The forestry bureau estimates that we are now annually consuming 20,000,000,000 cubic feet of good timber. Divide that into posts a foot square. Stand them on the earth, and let them grow up the moon. You can make five or six million such posts, and each of them would reach all the way to our little sister planet and still leave millions of cubic feet for cross-pieces to bolt the scaffold together. "And where did all this lumber go? In addition to the vast amount which went into boards and shingles, 1,000,000,000 feet were consumed in fence rails, posts, and telegraph poles. One hundred and eighty million feet went into white oak, went into ties for the railroads; 165,000,000 cubic feet were used for timbering mines, and 1,250,000 cords of wood were turned into alcohol. Many millions of cords of firewood were burned. A vast amount of timber was used for staves and for heads of barrels, and enough barrel hoops were turned out to give five to every man, woman and child in the United States, and leave some to spare. We used more than 3,000,000 cords of native wood in our paper mills. This was mainly spruce and hemlock; and millions went into notions of one kind or other. The toothpick, for instance, is little more than a splinter, but we have one factory in Maine which makes 500,000 of them every year. We have other places which turn out clothespins and wooden spoons by the hundreds of millions. Several hundred acres of forests are annually burned up as matches and more than 5,000 acres are cut down every year. This is the enormous amount that goes into furniture, and into carriages, and wagons of all kinds. The shingles, most of which come from the far West, are 3,700,000,000 in number, and the laths are four times as great. "This consumption is enough to make us pause and wonder where we shall get our wood for the future. "The government is doing all it can to cut down the waste. It sends out inspectors to the lumber camps to handle the timber, and to the managers of the sawmills as to the best kinds of machinery. Many of the lumbermen are now hewed out with the axe. It cut with the saw this alone would save more than 200,000,000 cubic feet of wood every year. "About two-thirds of the wood in trees chopped down for lumber is lost, and a large part of that intended for mine timbers, cooperage, and piles goes to waste. The government has advice as to the treatment of timber in order to keep out the insects and rot. The insects annually destroy more than 8,000,000,000 cubic feet, but this may be prevented by soaking the timber in chemicals. The same method is used against rot, something like 1,400,000,000 feet of boards being so treated last year. We are now using about 60,000,000 gallons of creosote and 19,000,000 pounds of zinc chloride for this purpose. "The government estimates that about one-fourth of all the timber logged in the forest goes to waste. This comes from careless cutting, the leaving of large stumps and the not using the tops and branches. In the mills the thick saw blades turn a great deal of lumber to dust, and it is calculated that if thin blades were used the places the sawing would be more than 2,000,000,000 board feet per annum. "The chief work of the forestry bureau, however, is taking care of the national forests. These are of enormous extent, and they are growing in value each year. They now cover 165,000,000 acres. In round numbers they are about equal to eight states as big as Kentucky or Virginia, and they have more than 500,000,000,000 board feet of merchantable timber. At this estimate they contain about one-tenth of the woods which covered the United States at the time it began to be settled, and going back to our homely comparison, contain enough lumber to make a board walk a foot wide from here to the sun."

SALARIES OF MINISTERS
Nine hundred dollars per annum is the stipend which the President's Augmentation Committee Executive is anxious to see paid to every minister by next March. Ontario and Quebec. YOUNG WOMEN BET

Employed in Business Institution,
Gave Money to Another
Employee

That men are not the only ones who are victims of the betting spirit was brought out in the Toronto police court when several young women, called as witnesses, told about giving money to Emanuel Lorsch, to bet on the races.

Lorsch and the young women are all clerks in one of the large downtown business institutions. The former follows the races, and knowing this, the four gamblers gave him money to put up on the horses. The charge against the young man was that of aiding wagering.

"Did you bet against him?" asked Mr. Corley of one of the witnesses. "No, he just placed it on the horses he was betting on himself."

"He was doing it just to oblige you?" "Yes."

Another of the young women said that she had done the same thing and had won some money.

"As the money was put up at the race track it was purely legitimate betting," said Mr. Corley.

"No, I don't see that there is any case against Lorsch," said the magistrate, "but I am surprised that these fine young ladies should be in this. I will dismiss the case."

SIR JOHN'S ARM CHAIR

Mr. Geo. A. Kingston Keeps Promise
Made Years Ago

The arm chair used by the late Sir John A. Macdonald during the years 1874 to 1878, when he was out of office and practicing law in Toronto, has recently become the property of Sir John A. Macdonald's old chair.

Which is to be forwarded to R. L. Borden, the new Premier.

Mr. R. L. Borden, the premier-elect, under romantic circumstances.

When the possession of the law firm of Macdonald and Marsh changed, the old chair, which had been used by Sir John as senior partner, passed into the possession of the new senior member of the firm, the late Mr. William Lount, K.C.

In 1890, when Mr. Lount was called to the bench, the chair was handed over to the junior member, Mr. George A. Kingston, who was retiring.

Some few years later Mr. Kingston was present as Secretary of the Borden Club of Toronto at a banquet given by the club at the King Edward in honor of the leader of the Conservative party, and shortly afterward asked Mr. Borden to allow him, on that happy occasion in the future when he should be Premier of Canada, to make him a present of the chair.

The chair is built in the old-fashioned comfortable style with the high back frames. The frame is of maple and was originally upholstered in green baize. It is recently, however, re-covered in a more modern style with heavy dark leather.

NEW ISLANDS IN FAR NORTH

Eruption Establishes Four Islands
Where There Were None

Fred Schroeder, who recently returned from Alaskan waters, saw new islands form in the far northern waters.

After hunting sea otter, Schroeder from the top of Mount Bogoslov, Alaska, an island peak, when the attention of himself and his sailing master, Chas. Pederson, was attracted to an eruption.

Flame-colored streaks spread over the sky, and a column of vapor arose from the top of Mount Bogoslov. Schroeder steered the schooner until he got within three miles of the island, from which position he had a clear view of the phenomenon. The molten matter spread over the sea, where the water was shallow. When the vapor finally cleared, after hours of eruption, four small islands were seen where there had been none before.

BIGGEST SCHOOLS IN CANADA

Kent and Ogden are Still Growing in Classes and Pupils

A merry race is now on between Ogden and Kent public schools for the honor of being the largest school, not only in Toronto, but in Canada.

Kent school has previously held the record, but Ogden school is giving a race for the honor, and probably hold the attendance record already.

Kent school was built a 31-room school, Ogden 27 rooms. Kent has just filled its 31st room. Ogden has two new rooms being added to it, and in the basement, and another class ready to go into the basement. In a few weeks it will reach the 31-room mark.

Marrianne

A gloom has been cast over Marrianne and district by the death on the 14th ult., after a short illness, at the early age of seventeen years, of Ruth Anderson, so well known and highly respected by all who knew her for her gentle and kindly character; always considerate of others, she remained so to the last. An affection of the heart, complicated by an attack of pneumonia, was the immediate cause of death. The funeral, which took place on Wednesday, the 18th, was, notwithstanding the inclement weather, largely attended, and many beautiful wreaths were amongst the tokens of respect. Services were held at the Anderson home, "Hogeland", in the Swedish church, Burnt Lake, and also at the cemetery where the internment took place. Pastor Neilson, of Evans, was the officiating minister and held up the character of the deceased as one which other rich would do well to copy. R. Boswell, school teacher at Marrianne, also spoke as to Ruth's character as a scholar. On the following Sunday a special memorial service in connection with the English church congregation at Marrianne was held in the school house, the seating accommodation of which was inadequate for the large numbers who attended. The service, which was musical, was conducted by R. York. Mr. Boswell presided at the organ and afterwards gave the address. The lessons were read by A. Millward and R. York, Jr.

The W. E. Lord Co. have just received a large consignment of men's women's and misses' hockey shoes. They are priced at the lowest possible margin. Now the freeze-up is here it's a good time to buy.

Mrs. Carter, of Kingston, Ont., who has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. E. Cunningham, left on Wednesday for her home. Mrs. Cunningham went down with her and will remain until after Christmas.

Revs. Brown, Moore, Bennett, Pearson and Wheeler, and Messrs. Michener, Jamieson, E. R. Hill, W. J. Carson, G. W. Smith and S. N. Carson were in attendance at the Laymen's Missionary Convention at Calgary this week.

A box social will be held at Balmoral school house by the ladies of the district on Friday evening, Nov. 3rd. And the young people expect to have a social time after the boxes are sold, so everyone come and enjoy an evening's amusement.

John H. Wright, one of Red Deer's old timers, now of Vancouver, and J. T. Armstrong, real estate man of the same city, are in town looking over the situation with a view to future purchases if they can be suited. Red Deer real estate is being sought after diligently by all knowing investors in the west.

Frank Monet while out shooting at J. H. Bennett's, a week ago Saturday, caught the trigger of his gun in his coat and discharged it, the shot passing through the side of his arm but luckily not shattering the bone, although it was partly cut up.

Mrs. B. Russell, of Halifax, Nova Scotia, is the guest of her son, A. H. Russell, and Mrs. Russell.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Brumpton left for their new home in Nanaimo, B. C., on Wednesday last, followed by the best wishes of a large number of friends. Mr. Brumpton is one of Red Deer's old timers, and has been associated with almost every progressive move the town has made.

He was a keen sportsman and President of the Red Deer Curling Club up to the time of his leaving for the coast. We all hope to see Mr. Brumpton, who was a faithful worker in the Methodist church, return to Red Deer to reside. The ladies of the Memorial Methodist church gave them a farewell social in the church on the eve of their departure, at which there were short addresses, music and refreshments, all regretting very much Mr. and Mrs. Brumpton's removal to the coast.

Delburne

Mr. and Mrs. Archie McLean visited Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Kent at Content a few days last week.

Mr. Perrell made a business trip to Content last Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blair and family, who have been out of town for the past few weeks, are returning, and will again take up residence here.

Miss Morris, who has been spending the summer months with relatives in the vicinity of Delburne, left for her home in Essex recently.

Mrs. Dr. Donovan, of Victoria, B. C., is the guest of Mrs. M. J. Manning.

Miss McLean, who has been visiting her niece, Mrs. P. W. Galbraith, returned to her home in the east last week.

The Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co. have been appointed Royal Victoria agents and will carry a full line of Vinolia goods.

Sad and Sudden Death

Wednesday, about midnight, Mrs. Murray, wife of William Murray, residing on Frank Piper's farm in Balmoral school district, died very suddenly. She was retiring for the night, having remained up to do some work, and on going to bed complained that she could not breathe. She got up and ran downstairs and called her father, who resided with them, and he ran for assistance, while she stepped outside to try and get some air. Mr. Murray brought her in, but she sat down on a chair and said she was going to die, and almost immediately lapsed into unconsciousness, and died in about ten minutes before help arrived.

Dr. Gray was called but could do nothing. Coroner Dr. Henry George was called but did not think a post mortem examination necessary.

Mrs. Murray was a sister of D. S. Truheart, and was strong, robust, and looked the picture of health. Heart failure was the real cause of death. She leaves three children, two girls, aged 2 and 9 years, and a boy, aged 12 years, besides her sorrowing husband. The family came to Red Deer last April and moved to their present home. The funeral took place Friday to the Red Deer cemetery. Rev. Mr. Brown conducting the service.
